

Academic Requirements Committee

Proposed Standing Rules – proposed additions are indicated in blue text; proposed deletions are indicated as strike-through text

The Academic Requirements Committee considers and acts on student petitions ~~referred to the for exceptions to the Academic Regulations. The petitions are referred to the~~ Committee by the Office of the Registrar. ~~Such p~~Petitions normally request approval of deviations from Academic Regulations or procedures and, in special cases, may require interpretations of the regulations may require interpretations of the regulations. In considering academic matters or problems, the Committee consults with appropriate individuals, committees, or academic units. All students have the right to petition the Committee. The petition process begins when the student submits their petition to the Registrar. If the Committee denies the petition, students can appeal the Committee twice. If the second appeal is denied by the Committee, the student can appeal to the Vice Provost for Academic Programs and Learning Innovation \(or designee\). Decisions by the Vice Provost \(or designee\) are final. ~~The Committee may recommend changes for improvement of regulations or procedures to the Academic Regulations Committee.~~

The Committee consists of seven Faculty, one of whom may be retired on a 1039-hour appointment, with at least one, but no more than three, undergraduate academic advisors, and two Students (one graduate, one undergraduate). In addition, the following shall be ex-officio members, non-voting: Registrar (or representative), and a representative from each of the following: Disability Access Services \(DAS\) representative, International Programs and the Graduate School. All members should be available to serve during the summer since the Committee reviews petitions all year. The Committee may recommend changes for improvement of regulations or procedures to the Academic Regulations Committee.

Current Standing Rules:

The Academic Requirements Committee considers and acts on Student Petitions referred to the Committee by the Office of the Registrar. Such petitions normally request approval of deviations from Academic Regulations or procedures and, in special cases, may require interpretations of the regulations. In considering academic matters or problems, the Committee consults with appropriate individuals, committees, or academic units. The Committee may recommend changes for improvement of regulations or procedures to the Academic Regulations Committee. The Committee consists of seven Faculty, one of whom may be retired on a 1039-hour appointment, with at least one undergraduate academic advisor, and two Students (one graduate, one undergraduate). In addition, the following shall be ex-officio members, non-voting: Registrar (or representative), and a Disability Access Services (DAS) representative

Proposed Standing Rules (clean copy):

The Academic Requirements Committee considers and acts on student petitions for exceptions to the Academic Regulations. The petitions are referred to the Committee by the Office of the Registrar. Petitions may require interpretations of the regulations. In considering academic matters or problems, the Committee consults with appropriate individuals, committees, or academic units. All students have the right to petition the Committee. The petition process begins when the student submits their petition to the Registrar. If the Committee denies the petition, students can appeal the Committee twice. If the second appeal is denied by the Committee, the student can appeal to the Vice Provost for Academic Programs and Learning Innovation (or designee). Decisions by the Vice Provost (or designee) are final. The Committee consists of seven Faculty, one of whom may be retired on a 1039-hour appointment, with at least one, but no more than three, undergraduate academic advisors, and two Students (one graduate, one undergraduate). In addition, the following shall be ex-officio members, non-voting: Registrar (or representative), a Disability Access Services (DAS) representative, an International Programs representative and a Graduate School representative. All members should be available to serve during the summer since the committee reviews petitions all year. The Committee may recommend changes for improvement of regulations or procedures to the Academic Regulations Committee.